

80% of people will remain quiet even when they really want to say something in order to avoid an argument with someone they care about